Tells us why he chose to vaccinate

Dr Shiraz Gani – Medical Advisor

When the cause of severe disease is a virus or bacteria, scientists run to the labs. They want either a cure or a way on preventing illness or the severity of an illness. The cumulative effect of such research produced a vaccine. The vaccine is a scientific effect of hope, prevention and preservation. We have been vaccinated since birth, in our toddler years, at school entry and even before planning a trip overseas. This vaccine is no different.

As the epicentre of Covid spreads across the world, my thought process was “prevent or suffer and die”. I could not prematurely leave my duty as a doctor to my fellow human brothers and sisters. My mum, my wife and my children could not be left to struggle as a result of my hesitancy to vaccinate.

My colleagues in the Platinum Health family are a vital part of the care that I could provide them.

I chose to prevent suffering and death

I got the COVID-19 jabTwice!!!!
